The DIMMER VIEW

Why Some Youngsters Go Bad

U.S. Senator Sam—he is, of course Dr. Sam Hayakawa—asked a sensible question the other day.

"Why," he asks, "don't we make it easier for youngsters to get jobs? It is the youngsters who are being discriminated against in the labor market today."

Sam not only asks the question, he has supplied the problem.

Youngsters are being discriminated against. The "why" part can be answered by our state and federal bureaucrats—and Sam is a legislator. He is in a position to do something about it.

Let's start at the very beginning. Who wants to hire a youngster just passing through puberty who first demands to know "what are the fringe benefits and when does vacation time come?"

The employer should have the first questions: "Do you want to work and can you follow instructions?" If the answer were honest it might be "no" in both instances.

Alright. These problems are proposed. Let's ask another question. This one for our lawmakers.

Why do elected legislators and appointed bureaucrats think that youngsters whose voices are changing and whose major concern is how to get rid of pimples believe that employers ought to pay $2.50 an hour to train these undisciplined youthful humans how to fit into the work ethic? $2.50 an hour is the minimum pay for youths 18 years of age who have never held a job.

Those who hire them have a more serious training experience than do teachers at our schools who are teaching less and demanding more income.

Years ago most youngsters got odd jobs at markets, newspapers and at various businesses where they earned a small wage but learned a lot about being an employee. School can't teach from textbooks what young employees learn from becoming a member of the job pool. At that age the best learning is from doing.

But youngsters enter the work force today with an antagonism that may have developed from listening to mom and/or pop talk about the miserable employer for whom he toils. No one has ever told him that all employers are miserable mostly because he is the boss. And no one who is boss can boss it properly without invoking rules and regulations without which no business can thrive.

But no one likes to be bossed. Legislators and courts have ruled that individual rights are paramount and soon may decide that being bossed is unconstitutional. This philosophy is bulwarked by government's growing determination that no one must suffer work in order to exist in this free nation. And some welfare and stamp programs back this determination.

Yet, this nation's more precious commodity is the free enterprise system. Without it the system becomes socialistic or communistic. The ability to choose one's own profession is a basic element of the Constitution. Only free enterprise can feed that need.

Why then, you may ask, do we freeze our other precious resource—those who will perpetuate the idea of freedom—out of the system by making the training process so impossible for youngsters?

Sam has suggested that we reduce the juvenile wage (training) to a point where employers will accept youngsters into the work force to do jobs that are not filled today because they must pay the trainee $100 a week.

Let's let the kids get their job training for, say $1.25 an hour. Let's face up squarely to trainee value—and while we're at it let's face honestly some of our other economic problems.

Let's tell the people the truth about the energy shortage. That it was connived partially by the oil industry's arrangement of having their own foreign operation charge their U.S. owners an unrealistically high price for their own product which results in high profits for oil industry while laying the blame on foreign operations which they own and which they complain against.

Let's tell the truth about the forces which contribute mostly to inflation by which many aged, retired and other Americans are being deprived of the fruit of their lifetime labors.

Let's tell them that it is profligate government spending that is making it near impossible for them to live under the free enterprise system.

Let's tell the people that there is so much government and so many useless bureaus in this nation that it not only inhibits the normal operation of a democratic system, but that it is being forced into dictatorship.

A change of direction would be to lift the controls on young workers.

Regardless of what your unions say, there are no sweat shops today. And there haven't been for a couple of generations. The ruling still exists because union cannot force membership on juveniles.

Seven Plans Lumped For Planning Office Vote

The San Diego County Integrated Planning Office is expected to approve formally the community plans for seven different areas including the Valle de Oro Plan May 27.

Included in the seven headed package to be laid before the planning office chiefs will be:

- the Valle de Oro Community Plan,
- the Alpine Community Plan,
- the Sweetwater Plan,
- revisions to the Rainbow community plan,
- revisions to the Santee Community Plan,
- revisions to the Plan for San Dieguito,
- and staff recommended changes to the plan for Lakeside.

The planning office said the heads will vote on the seven proposals as a group as a legal formality. The plans will then be recommended to the Board of Supervisors this July 11.

Since there have been so many changes in the Valle de Oro plan, officials said, copies may not be ready for another few weeks.

Also expected this coming July is Board approval of all seven community plans.

"The IPO can only make recommendations," said one staff member. "It is the Board who will make the final determination. But the Board usually goes with the Planning Office recommendations."

TANKER OVERTURNS—An east-bound loaded off ramp at Broadway street in Lemon Grove Union 76 gasoline tanker driven by Anton and overturned at about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. Schilpp of El Cajon skidded in the route 94. The driver was not injured.

Land Use Tops Council Agenda

There's a big agenda for tonight's meeting of the Lemon Grove City Council, according to Tom Parks, liaison between the council and the County Board of Supervisors.

The meeting starts at 8 p.m. at the Lemon Grove Fire Station at 7853 Central ave.

On tap will be representatives of the Land Use and Environmental Agency (LUER); the Environmental Analysis Division of the Community and the Department of Transportation.

All are interconnected in land use including DoT which is responsible for providing subdivision maps in addition to street maintenance.

Mayor Jim Dorman is listed on the agenda under subjects of City Hall Site and City Attorney Selection.

Dottie Pettis and Betty Wusnik are programmed to discuss their program of "Lemon Aides."

Geneva Swanson will talk about a Regional Youth Employment program and Tom Parks has a variety of subjects on matters left over from the May 5 meeting.

Parks said Sheriff John

Duffy has been placed on the agenda for June 2.

Meanwhile, the incorporation committee is producing a 32-page inaugural magazine containing information about the new city and its officers.

Those wishing to get a message in the magazine should call Lois Heiserman at 466-1034 or Bob Holady at 466-1034.

Little Boy, 2, Survives Attack by 'Vicious' Dog

Two year old Kenneth Gilmer, 2453 Edding dr., Lemon Grove, is in satisfactory condition in Grossmont Hospital after being attacked by a dog in Lemon Grove last week.

The infant was rushed to Grossmont Hospital at 11 a.m. May 10 in critical condition after being bitten by a neighbor's dog on Edding street.

Summoned to the scene were the Lemon Grove fire department, San Diego County sheriff's deputies, and officers of the County Animal Control Department.

The Animal Control officers removed the dog, thought to be a Japanese breed trained to hunt bears, to the animal shelter in Bonita.

The animal control officials have labeled the dog as vicious and will return it to its owner, J. Northcott, 2459 Edding drive.

The attack on the infant was the second time the dog has bitten, animal control officials said.

The Animal Control Department issues letters to dog owners whose pets have attacked people more than once warning the animals have been labeled as vicious. The department requires the animals to be muzzled, chained, and restrained.

If a dog attacks three times, the department will issue a citation to the owner or may after three days destroy it.

Poppy Day Here Sat. and Sun.

National Buddy Poppy Day is being celebrated throughout America Friday and Saturday.

Members of VFW Posts and their auxiliaries sell the poppies on the streets and in shopping centers to assist veterans in hospitals and those with needy families, as well as to support the VFW National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich. The Home cares for orphans of deceased veterans.

Members of Lemon Grove Post and auxiliary 2082 and Spring Valley Post and auxiliary 3787 will be selling the commemorative poppies in the local area.

1977-78 School Year Set For L.G. District

The school calendar for the 1977-78 school year has been set by the Lemon Grove School District Board of Trustees.

Classes will open September 12 with October 24 set aside for Veteran's Day, November 24 for Thanksgiving, December 19-January 3 for winter vacation, February 13 for Lincoln's Birthday, February 20 for Washington's birthday, March 20-25 for spring vacation, May 29 for Memorial Day, and June 15 as the last day of school 1978.

There will be 177 teaching days during the 1977-78 school year.

Bus Firm 'Inefficient' Charges Senator Mills

Senate President pro tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego, has attacked "inefficient" management of San Diego Transit Corp. as the cause for a proposed fare increase.

"I warned from the time they began receiving sales tax money that they were pouring dollars down the drain on useless routes instead of increasing service on high-density, popular lines where patronage would be guaranteed," Mills said.

"But my advice was ignored and this is the result. Now the chickens are coming home to roost.

"Instead of forcing people off the buses by increasing fares, the board of directors should be concentrating on making San Diego Transit more efficient.

"How can the board of directors honestly expect people on fixed and low incomes to continue using buses if the fare box is pushed out of reach. If they're predicting 90 cents for 1980, what are they predicting for 1981?"

Firm Afraid?

"The public has a right to know, or maybe the corporation officials are afraid to tell the public because the people then would really grasp how shamefully inefficient San Diego bus service has become. We need somebody else if this is the way they intend to operate," Mills declared.

Mills pointed out that San Diego transit is a perfect example of the need for his legislation (SB 759) making local transit systems more accountable and more efficient if they want to continue receiving state aid.

MM Class of '67 Reunion Planned

A reunion of the Mt. Miguel High School class of 1967 is scheduled for July 23 at the Atlantis Restaurant at Sea World.

It is the first reunion and 10th anniversary, the committee said. The celebration will be 7 p.m.-1 a.m.

Those who want to participate should call the bookkeeper at Mt. Miguel High school — 463-5551.

Those helping to put the reunion together include Lynn (Norman) Collier, who was in the Mt. Miguel choir and girls' glee club, and Sharon (Butcher) Westfall, who was commissioner of school service.

Notices were sent to those whose addresses were available. Those who were in the class of '67 and who have not received notice of the affair are urged to call.

Season Rainfall 11.90

Thursday's drizzles left .04 of an inch of rain local meteorologists reported.

It brought this season's total of rain to 11.90 inches—nearly 2 inches more than last year at the same date. Last year the total was 10.05 inches.

Rainfall seasons end June 30.

FIRST SERVED—Mrs. Mary Kisse, 97, of 2484 El Prado ave., Lemon Grove accepts the first meal from Meals On Wheels worker Eleanor McCormick. The program for the Lemon Grove and Spring Valley area began May 9. (See story page 8).

What is a City?

Last week this column discussed Parks & Rec., Planning and Police. Here is PUBLIC WORKS:

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT

The Public Works Department of a city may be organized to perform a variety of services.

Generally, there are three divisions to be found in most Public Works Departments. These divisions are engineering, street maintenance and sanitation.

Primarily, a Public Works Department is responsible for the design and preparation of plans, specifications and estimate for construction of public works projects such as streets, alleys, storm drains, sanitary sewers, street lights, traffic signals and many others.

Inspection of public works projects performed under contract by utilities and subdividers is also the responsibility of this department.

As a special project, the PWD usually handles assessment district proceedings whereby particular properties are assessed the cost of particularized projects.

Included in the more routine operations of the DPW is the erection and maintenance of street and traffic signs, striping of streets, maintenance and repair of streets, maintenance of sanitary sewers, maintenance of trees and parkways, and the administration of and the collection of refuse and the administration of weed removal from vacant lots in the city.

OTHER DEPARTMENTS

Some cities have other departments, for example: personnel, library, civil defense, health, dog pound, environmental control and human resources.

In the next issue FINANCING will be discussed.

Big For Britches

Q. My 32-year-old son is a picture of health on the outside, but locks everything up inside him.

He doesn't drink or smoke, is a good-food kid. He loves to eat. I keep him on rye and whole wheat bread, and I keep him on juices and apple cider, which he loves.

I cook everything from scratch and use as little oil as possible. He left high school because he couldn't adjust to changing rooms and now worries unreasonably about the product he works on may be indicative of a profound inner insecurity.

Love of eating is also often the symptom of such psychological illness. And it isn't helped by going from one doctor to another. As you say, he

A. Sounds like your son has a pretty well developed inferiority complex. The fact that he left high school because he couldn't adjust to changing rooms and now worries unreasonably about the product he works on may be indicative of a profound inner insecurity.

Love of eating is also often the symptom of such psychological illness. And it isn't helped by going from one doctor to another. As you say, he

Hunger Workshop Held

A workshop on world hunger will be held this Sunday at the United Church of Christ, 5940 Kelton ave.

The program begins at 11 a.m. and luncheon is $1.

The Rev. Ronald Nowlin at Vista La Mesa Christian Church can make arrangements at 463-9909.

The young people will gather tomorrow night for recreational programs and on Saturday will participate in discussion groups and seminars.

is a grown man now and must work things out for himself. You can't do it for him. Could be that the cure is some honest-to-goodness religious faith in which he learns not only to trust God but to trust himself.

Steady As She Egos

Q. I am 56 years old, single and am a conscientious, hard worker. I work in a savings and loan association.

At this point my knowledge of my work is superior to my supervisor's, and I think she is aware of this.

As time goes on she increasingly criticizes my work. Most of the criticisms are trivial, and in some cases she contradicts herself.

If I make a mistake she makes me do it all over. If a certain other employee makes a mistake the supervisor merely corrects it for her.

Sometimes she lets me do a particular job, then the next time she insists that the other employee do it. Her "dirty tricks" upset me terribly. Have you any suggestions as to how this type of situation can be handled so as to be less depressing to me?

A. If it is true that your work is superior to that of your supervisor and that she realizes this fact, you must try to handle this situation in a superior manner as well. Don't stoop to her tactics. Her attitudes toward your work may be self-defensive. If so, she is trying to protect her ego.

Accept her corrections unobably and with understanding. Don't let her upset you. Be friendly, cooperative, kindly. This attitude will in time undercut hostility. If you fight back and show resentment it will only serve to maintain the existing situation. Just go on doing your job efficiently and try to understand the other's personality reactions.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer for yourself to a problem that you can share with others in THERE'S AN ANSWER! If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

ABC-TV Will Air Serra Ministry Film

A documentary film which portrays the Serra Residential Center's ministry to retarded adults will be carried by ABC affiliates this Sunday.

Produced jointly by ABC-News and the National Council of Churches, the documentary "Directions" depicts the newest of 30 retarded centers in the country.

"We feel quite proud that Serra Center has been selected for a special documentary on the mentally retarded," said Vista La Mesa Christian Church pastor Ron Nowlin. "It is a tribute to the Christian Church and the Serra Center Staff."

The Center is located in Fremont, California.

Locally, KCST, Channel 39, will carry the broadcast at 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

Weight Reduction Class Upcoming For Skyline

Skyline Wesleyan Church will host the second "Case Weight Seminar" June 10-11.

The seminar shows ways to reduce by citing biblical scriptures. The program advocates the elimination of any refined food from the diet including sugars and any food touched by machinery for processing.

Mrs. Carol Beard is the seminar's leader and she will take reservations for it at 449-0891.

LG Christian Hosts Gospel Music Star This Sunday

Renown gospel music star Ransom Hess will bring his talents to the Christian Church of Lemon Grove, 6970 San Miguel ave., this Sunday at 11 a.m.

Hess, best known for his radio and television performances, on May 7, 1975, had the honor of being featured singer for a prayer breakfast in the White House for former President Gerald Ford.

Hess has also enjoy good response to his recordings which are based on traditional gospel music. The program will include favorite gospel songs, inspirational poetry, and uplifting scripture.

The Rev. Larry Johnson, pastor of the Lemon Grove Christian Church, said the event would be the first major program for the congregation this year.

Pastor Johnson added there would be a nursery and toddler care available during the service.

63 to be Pinned As 'Pink Ladies'

63 members of the Grossmont Hospital Auxiliary who have devoted 100 hours of volunteer work as "Pink Ladies", will be pinned Tuesday at a public luncheon.

In addition, 13 women will receive pins for 10 years of service.

Other awards will be made for those who have served 1 to 22 years. Three members have been in the Pink Lady service for 22 years — since the concept was started at Grossmont Hospital.

The program will be supplied by Dr. David Jacobs, a psychiatrist, director of Bio-Feedback of San Diego.

The luncheon will be at Magnolia Mulvaney's restaurant, 8861 Magnolia, Santee. Lunch is $4. The program gets under way at 10 a.m.

PacTel Eyes Taxes

Executive of the Pacific Telephone Co., at a press conference May 11, told reporters that a major problem facing the firm at present is the tax philosophy that is being determined by Congress regarding the Consumer Reform Act.

One bill would require an increase in rates to phone users, it was said. It is not known whether the present taxing policy or a new one will be instituted, according to Art Latno, of San Francisco, PacTel's executive vice president for External Affairs.

Hewes Bell, local vice president and E. J. Brunick, general manager took part in the conference which was at the Little America Westgate Hotel.

Small Business Week

President Jimmy Carter has proclaimed next week as Small Business Week according to a spokesman for the San Diego office of the federal Small Business Administration.

According to the local office, Carter asked in his proclamation setting the week, all Americans to join him in "expressing the pride we take in our nation's small business sector."

"A successful small business is evidence of the independence initiative and hard work of the man or woman who owns and operates it," Carter's proclamation read in part. "Their spirit has been, and will continue to be, a major factor in our nation's growth."

VINTAGE CRADLE — One of the antiques featured at this weekend's San Diego County Antique Dealers Association show and sale will be this 120 year old French swing cradle from the collection at High Hope Antiques, 7921 Broadway, Lemon Grove. Mrs. Ruby Goodwin, owner of High Hope Antiques, will display the cradle at the show.

Antiques at Masonic Temple For 3-Day Public Showing

As it has for the past twelve years, the Antique Dealers Assn. of S.D. County will again present what has become the area's largest and best attended Antique Show in their traditional show rooms in the Masonic Temple in Mission Valley on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, it was announced by Frank Prince, local antique shop owner and president of the A.D.A.

"A.D.A.'s annual spring show was the first of its kind when initiated 12 years ago," he said. "It has long since earned the acceptance of more antique collectors and the general public than any other show. Our theme this year, 'It's the Big One — the Great One', means just that from the standpoint of numbers of exhibitors and quality, variety and value of merchandise."

Two large rooms of the Masonic Temple will be crammed full by more than 58 exhibitors who will offer more than $275,000 worth of merchandise, Prince said.

Genuine Antiques
Being shown during the three-day presentation will be all the exotics of genuine antiques, both domestic and foreign, as well as the Americana, primitives, art nouveau and art deco popularly-priced items now being collected by young marrieds and serious collectors alike.

Items on display will include oak, walnut and Victorian furniture for every room in the house, art glass, clocks, porcelain, paper goods, dolls, toys, jewelry, tapestries, coins, music boxes, musical instruments, bric-a-brac, bronzes, sculptures, prints, paintings, books, magazines and thousands of other old and collectible treasures selling from ten-cents to a thousand or more dollars.

Show Co-Chairmen for the event are association members Yvette Moore and Mamie Hogan, each of whom has her own antique shop and who will be exhibitors.

Show hours at the Masonic Temple exhibit hall at 1895 Camino de Rio, South, are: noon 'til 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday; noon 'til 6 Sunday.

Area Obituaries

Monica Perkins

Services for Monica Perkins, 24, were held 1 p.m. last Friday at Conrad Mortuary. Miss Perkins died May 11 in University Hospital from cystic fibrosis but left a unique message.

"I'm glad I was born whether I'm sick or not," Miss Perkins was active in cystic fibrosis conventions as a lecturer to tell parents how afflicted children felt about the disease.

She also served as a volunteer at University Hospital.

Born in Peoria, Illinois, she lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kimzey, 1691 Colfax dr., Lemon Grove.

Survivors include her parents, three sisters, Sharon, Millie Wise, and Sandy Antonaci; a brother, Eddie and a grandmother.

Rescue Aid Commended

Emergency service personnel generally have a feeling that when an emergency occurs it should be handled by the most qualified persons available, fire department, police, and so on. This feeling is generated by the fact that often times needless additional damage to property, additional injuries, and a statement of confusion is caused by the unprofessional efforts made by citizens. An exception to this feeling took place recently in Spring Valley.

At approximately 4:59 p.m. on Sunday, May 8, a serious one-vehicle accident occurred in the rain covered 1300 block of Sweetwater Road.

The vehicle, carrying five passengers, skidded from the road striking a protective railing and plunged on its side into the rapid moving waters of a drainage canal running parallel to Sweetwater Road. All five passengers were ejected into the current.

There were a great number of concerned citizens present at the accident scene who risked their own welfare to assist those in need.

It is with great respect that we of the Spring Valley Fire Department take this opportunity to acknowledge the unselfish actions of those who became involved with this rescue. Without their quick involvement the accident would surely have been an even more tragic day for Spring Valley residents.

Forestry Retirees Sought For Posts On Youth Project

Almost 100 retired former state employees are back at work this summer assisting the California Department of Forestry in their Youth Forest Protection Project.

The retirees are working as crew leaders, supervising youngsters 16-22 years old during the summer firefighting season. Some are also driving vans or crew buses.

The youth project is funded by the federal government to provide jobs for young men and women between the ages of 16 and 22. They assist the CDF's firefighting defenses with the clearing and maintenance of fire breaks, reducing roadside fire hazards and providing support services for fire-prevention and fire-suppression crews.

"We have had good success because of the interest the retirees have in the program," said Rex Carlson, Sacramento program coordinator, and himself a retired state forest ranger. "The response was fantastic."

Forestry sought state retirees from any department who had experience in supervision, and also some knowledge of safe working habits and hand tools.

Some of the retirees are employed full time; others work part-time. The pay, $7.43 per hour, is a good supplement for retiree incomes, especially for earlier retirees whose incomes have been eroded by inflation.

Retirees were required to fill out a health questionnaire and meet light duty standards. Those who retired on disability were accepted if they passed a health examination.

The Sacramento address is Calif. Dept. of Aging, 918 J St. (95814).

Purchasing Expert For Grove District Retires

Mrs. Harriet Kelly was honored Friday for some 20 years of service to the Lemon Grove School District by her co-workers.

Mrs. Kelly, who retires this year, joined the Lemon Grove School District in 1957 and since has been instrumental in the development of improved purchasing practices throughout the state.

She is the past president of the California Association for Public School Business.

Ceremonies performed in the Lemon Grove School District office, 8025 Lincoln, also included Harry Weisgerber and the Lemon Grove Junior High School Band to perform for Mrs. Kelly their competition march "March Honors of the Day." The band used the selection in competition recently at the Maytime Band Review.

This Week's RECIPE

Award Winning Pot Roast

Mrs. Donald Feeney of Descanso won top honors April 27 for this recipe for Fruity Hawaiian Pot Roast at the area-wide Beef cook-out held in El Cajon.

She will now go on to competition in Davis in early June to vie against eight other area winners hoping to represent California in the National Beef Cook-Off held September 15-16 in Columbus, Ohio.

- FRUITY HAWAIIAN POT ROAST
- 5 lb. beef chuck arm bone roast
 - 2 cloves garlic, slivered
 - 1 can (8 1/4 oz.) pineapple chunks or tidbits, and juice
 - 1/2 cup cider vinegar
 - 1/2 chopped onion
 - 3 tablespoons soy sauce
 - 1 tablespoon worcestershire sauce
 - 2 tablespoons salad or olive oil
 - 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 - 1/2 tablespoon ground ginger
 - 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
 - 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed beef broth
 - 1 1/2 tablespoons salt
 - 3 cups peeled sweet potato or yam chunks
 - 3/4 cup pitted prunes
 - 1/2 cup golden seedless raisins
 - 2 tablespoons cornstarch blended with 2 table-spoons water
- Pierce beef generously with large fork. Using sharp knife, cut slits in beef. Insert slivers of garlic into the slits. Combine pineapple chunks and juice, vinegar, onions, soy sauce, oil, worcestershire sauce, brown sugar, ginger and orange rind.

Place beef in snug fitting bowl or double plastic bags. Pour pineapple marinade over beef. Cover or fasten bags. Refrigerate for 12 hours or longer, mixing or turning once.

Place beef and marinade in dutch oven or large heavy saucepot. Add beef broth and salt. Bring to boiling point.

Simmer, covered with reduced heat, for 1 1/2 hours. Add sweet potatoes, prunes, and raisins. Simmer, covered 1/2 hour longer.

Remove beef and strained fruits to warm platter. Blend cornstarch with water. Stir into liquid in saucepot. Cook and stir until sauce thickens. Serve hot with the fruits and pot roast.

Special note: If desired, garnish with apricot or peach halves filled with currant jelly.

Girl Scout Camp Winacka Plans Open House June 5

Girl Scout Camp Winacka near Julian open for resident camping on Sunday, June 5

A ribbon-cutting ceremony will open Unit IV, a complex containing sleeping facilities and solar heated latrines and showers. The unit was built with the sales proceeds from the Girl Scouts' first locally-produced calendar, the Girl Scout Cookie Sale and donations from Kiwanis and Stromberg-Data Graphix.

The theme this year is "Bring a Friend to Camp" and the public is invited to the opening. Activities include tours of the camp by the counselors, special displays in the units, and a flag ceremony. Hostesses will be available to answer questions throughout the day and refreshments will be provided.

The natural terrain at Camp Winacka consists of sloping hills, meadows and two natural lakes. Campers can sleep in tents, cabins, or outside under the oak trees. There is an on-going archaeological dig on the site and other activities include swimming, archery, cook-outs and nature hikes. Special sessions are available on Indian Living, Drama, Mountain Living, Backpacking and Drawing and Painting.

Non-Scouts are welcome to sign up for any sessions which are still available.

Girl Scouts' telephone is 298-8391.

Xi Beta Xi Meet For Grand Finale Party

The Xi Beta Xi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will conclude its meeting year Tuesday with a salad and dessert party at the home of Mrs. Louis Silva, 5980 Joel lane, La Mesa.

Zen Discussed Saturday

The ancient religion of Zen will be the topic of a lecture Saturday night at 8 p.m. in the Grossmont College Fine Arts Recital Hall.

Net All-Star Tickets Ready

Tickets to the World Team Tennis All-Star Match, scheduled July 9 in the Sports Arena, are now on sale.

All seats are reserved and may also be purchased at Mutual-Liberty locations throughout San Diego County. Mail orders also will be accepted: write All Star Match, San Diego Sports Arena, 3500 Sports Arena Blvd. Tickets are $20, $10, $7.50 and $5.

The All-Star Match features players representing Eastern teams competing against the Western division clubs. Probable matchups in the five-set schedule include Bjorn Borg vs. Ilie Nastase, Martina Navratilova vs. Chris Evert and the doubles teams of Billie Jean King-Sue Barker or Virginia Wade vs. Betty Stove-Francoise Durr or Kelly Reid.

Other top male players competing include San Diego's Rod Laver, Tom Okker, Vitas Gerulaitis and Tony Roche.

Present Friars season ticket customers are guaranteed preferred locations but the entire seating capacity of the Sports Arena will be used for this event. Starting time will be 8 p.m. with the national telecast delayed in the San Diego area until later that evening.

Burglars Active On Pacific Street

While Maurice Paul King was in his residence at 7608 Pacific St., Lemon Grove, a burglar was taking his box of mechanic's hand tools from his auto parked in front of his home.

The loss, he told sheriff's deputies about 4:30 p.m. on March 30, was worth $750. They had been left on the front seat of his auto.

In the same block, at 7390 Pacific ave., a thief raided the open garage belonging to Robert William Bush. His loss was set at $350 and the items were antiques — a cash register and two kettles.

Biletnikoff, Anderson in Dewar Net Tilt

LAS VEGAS — Wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff, Most Valuable Player in the Super Bowl for the champion Oakland Raiders, and Dr. J. (Julius Erving), MVP in the NBA All-Star game, were the first entries for the seventh Dewar's Sports Celebrity Tennis Championship, announced tournament chairman Iz Becker.

The round-robin, doubles

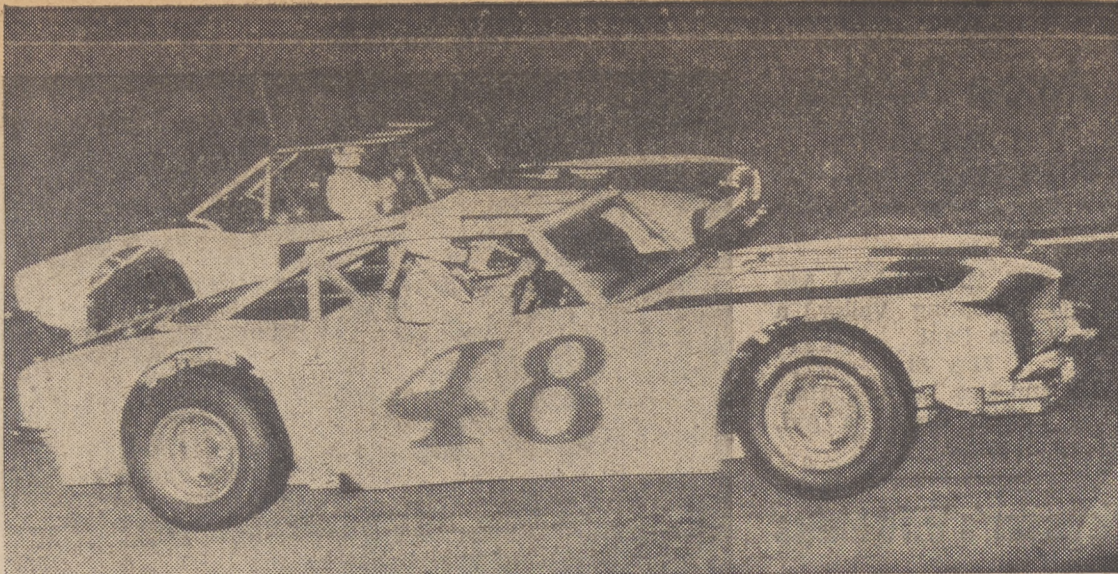

CLOSE QUARTERS — Ken Anderson, star Cincinnati Bengals quarterback, seems surprised after backhand return during action in Dewar's Sports Celebrity Tennis Tournament. Anderson will be one of 32 top athletes from 10 different sports who'll be competing June 6-10 at the Hotel Riviera courts in Las Vegas. Competition is round-robin, doubles.

event, featuring stars from sports other than tennis, will be played June 6-10 at the Hotel Riviera courts.

Becker said last year's Dewar's Cup winners, Bob Klein, former USC and Los Angeles Rams tight end, and Brad Park, All-Star Boston Bruins defenseman, will be back for another go.

Klein will be looking for his third cup since he also won the 1975 event with baseball Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg.

Thirty-three star athletes from nine different sports are expected to compete in the five-day event.

RACERS — George Behlman of Lemon Grove has a slight edge over Pat McIntyre of Spring Valley in a recent race at Cajon Speedway oval.

McIntyre leads the pack with 860 ECSRC points and has chalked up 1 win and 3 seconds.

McIntyre Holds Cajon Oval Lead

Drivers at Cajon Speedway would have welcomed it if Pat McIntyre of Spring Valley had decided to remain at Indianapolis for two more weeks.

Last week, his third second-place finish of the season was enough to extend his El Cajon Stock Car Racing Assn. points lead over runnerup Mike Hagerman to 275 points. Hagerman won his first ever 40-lap main event.

Again, he'll be the driver to beat as the super stockers enter their sixth week of competition on the popular banked asphalt track.

Time trials begin at 6:30 with the trophy dash set to get underway at 8 p.m.

It should be a busy evening too, with the inclusion of the second Powder Puff Derby of the campaign and a charity Demolition Derby to follow the entire program.

Professional athletes, television and radio personalities will engage in the slam-bang affair in conjunction with the Big Brothers charity.

The KGB Chicken will be out to start the battle of the wrecks.

Holly Stahl, Barbara Baxter and Sue Lyon figure to continue their tussle for the Powder Puff prize. Stahl won the season opener and Baxter is defending champion.

There have been five different winners and with the number of front-runners there are many more candidates in the pits.

Derby Trials on At Los Alamitos

LOS ALAMITOS — A group of outstanding distance runners and the best 3-year-olds in the country will be on the track this weekend at Los Alamitos with the War Chic Stakes and the Derby trials slated over the two-day period as the Orange County track swings into its second week-end of quarter horse action during the current 62-night summer season.

Distance runners will be in the Saturday night spotlight when defending HQHRA distance champion Big Badger takes on most of the top 870-yard runners in the country in the $10,000-added War Chic Stakes.

The Derby trials on Friday night will determine the 10 finalists for the $75,000-added Los Alamitos Derby, the third jewel in California's Quarter horse triple crown to be run May 28.

Heading the list of horses expected to compete in the Derby trials is The Bulldogger, winner of the $25,000 Golden State Derby at Bay Meadows less than one month ago.

NCAA Net Tourney Under Way at USD

The first Collegiate NCAA Tennis Tournament for San Diego winds up when Div. II play ends on Saturday at USD.

Play started Wednesday on 8 USD courts on the main campus.

Quarter and semi final doubles will be Friday at 1 and 3 p.m. following singles semis at 10 a.m.

Finals will be 10 a.m. Saturday for singles and 12:30 for doubles.

Admission is $1 for adults; teenagers free.

More than 4,000 fans are expected to view the tourney. USD is above Linda Vista and Morena blvds.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

With any luck there'll be a Player teeing it up in San Diego this summer. And a Casper and a Nicklaus, too. Not the originals, unfortunately, but pretty good carbon copies. Chip shots off the old block, as it were. Offspring reaching for a little recognition on their own.

For one reason or another, each of the above could fill a berth in the largest international golf tournament held anywhere in this solar system. Well... perhaps the British Open does offer some competition in this regard, but this is for kids and it happens right here in San Diego.

It's the Junior World Golf Tournament celebrating its 10th birthday the week of July 19th. As always, four age groups will tackle five courses in stiff competition with the senior division out playing 72 holes and the rest coming home in 54 holes.

Right from the top you can see this is no run-of-the-mill, rival-to-a-goat-roping-contest sort of doings. The Junior World is big time. Already more than 24 foreign countries have been in touch with Mrs. A. S. "Lou" Smith, Junior World Tournament Director.

And letters have been dispatched to PGA touring pros who brag from time to time, like all fond fathers will, of the golfing skills of their youngins'.

Gary Player is rightfully proud of the swinging of his son Wayne, who will probably journey here from South Africa in the company of Philip Jonas, coming back for his fourth visit. Last year Jones ran off and hid with an 11 stroke victory in the 13-14 age division.

This year he gets to tee up in the senior division and test south Torrey Pines, home of the Junior World sponsoring Andy Williams San Diego Open.

Jonas and Player, like all other foreign players, get Junior World starting berths by invitation. It ain't so easy for the domestic types. They gotta qualify. Each Professional Golf Association section in the country will sponsor qualifying tournaments with the winners in both the boys' and girls' 15 through 17 division getting free passage to San Diego.

There are two exceptions. Hawaii and, for the first time entering on its own, American Samoa. The Hawaiian Junior Golf Association takes care of Island qualifying and Bobby Tom, its able and dynamic director, usually hauls in about 80 folks including dancers, musicians, parents and outstanding young golfers. He also brings in a ton of pineapples, a thousand leis and a million smiles.

The Hawaiians enter all four divisions and Bobby Tom, or one of his assistants, gets all the 10-and-unders to Presidio Hills, all the 11 and 12 swingers to Mission Bay Golf Works, the 13 and 14 crowd to Balboa Park and the senior division sluggers to Torrey Pines, where the girls play the first 54 holes on the north course and join the boys on the more demanding south course for the final round.

Qualifying is never easy, of course. But the word is that Jack Nicklaus II has the game to gain a berth in the Florida prelims and Bobby Casper can do the same thing in his home PGA section.

And for another entry of note, Nathaniel Crosby, who played Whispering Palms in his mother's LPGA event a few months ago, is said to be one of the favorites in the northern California qualifier.

And there'll be youngsters from Japan, Australia, most South American countries, the Middle East — including both Israel and Egypt, Scotland, a host of European countries, and our neighbors to the north and south, Canada and Mexico.

On any given year it could very easily be the biggest golf gathering in the world, considering the number of countries represented in the pairing sheets.

And if the future is with the young, then perhaps golf, and the way the world will get along, gets a positive international start in San Diego.

Raquetball Championships At MV's Atlas June 4-11

32 nationally ranked professional racketball players will compete in the $15,000 Leach-Seamco Pro-National Championships to be played at the Atlas Health Club in San Diego's Mission Valley June 4-11.

The winner in the men's pro singles division will earn $4,000, the largest prize ever paid in a racketball tournament, and recognition as the national champion.

In the women's pro singles division the winner will receive $1,200.

In addition to the professional events, more than 400 amateurs are expected to compete in several age divisions for national titles.

Tournament Director Ken Davidson, manager of the Atlas Health Club, says that both the amateur and professional competition will begin June 4 with the pro finals held on June 11.

According to Davidson, among the top-seeded pro men's division players will be Marty Hogan, Charles Brumfield and Davey Bledsoe, all of San Diego and members of the Atlas Club.

Charles Brumfield, last year's champion, has been runner-up in four of the last 10 stops. He will be seeded second and defending his title against Hogan, Bledsoe and other top-rated players such as Steve Strandemo, Steve Keeley and Richard Wagner, all of San Diego, and Craig McCoy of Los Angeles and Jerry Hilecher of St. Louis.

The top two women pros on this year's tour are Peggy Steding of Odessa, Texas, and Shannon Wright of San Diego, also an Atlas club member.

The 22,000 square foot Atlas Health Club has seven racketball courts, including two glass championship courts. Advanced reserve seating is nearly sold out. General admission tickets will be sold on daily basis at the club.

$250 Trimmer Taken

The thief broke a rear window in his van to get to his gardening tools but took only a 2-cycle Little Wonder hedge trimmer worth $250, John M. Warner, of 9335 Lamar St., told the sheriff's office.

He was in his residence when the loss occurred and he had no idea why more valuable tools were passed up.

The value of the tools, he said, was $830. The theft occurred at his residence at 9923 Dolores St., Spring Valley.

Champs Galore at Carlsbad Hang 10 Motocross Grand Prix

Two current World Champions face each other in the Grand Prix competition June 19.

The 1977 Hang Ten/Belray U. S. Moto-Cross Grand Prix at Carlsbad Raceway will have 5-time Champion, Roger De Coster (Suzuki) of Belgium signed for a man-to-man struggle with double champion and new Yamaha team rider, Heikki Mikkola of Finland.

Mikkola was the rider who, in 1974, broke a string of World Championship wins that De Coster had put together in the three previous seasons. The Belgian got his revenge in 1975 and last year Mikkola moved out of the 500cc class to win the World 250cc Championship.

The 500cc title, however, is considered the ultimate in moto-cross racing and it was his determination to win "the big one" once again that led Mikkola to switch camps last year from Husqvarna to Yamaha. He aims at his third World title this year . . . his second in the ultra-prestigious 500cc bracket.

De Coster is even more determined to nail down yet another Championship win. His tally of 5 titles is already far ahead of any 500cc class rider and one more win will see him equal the all-time World Championship record of fellow Belgian, Joel Robert. Even now, most observers of the sport rate De Coster as "the greatest ever" and another title win will prove it beyond doubt!

Off-Roaders Feature Of 4-Day Ascot Show

GARDENA — Old antagonists Gordon Jones of La Habra and Gary Potter of Monrovia share new glory as the off-road vehicles of the S. Cal. Independent Drivers' Assn. return to J. C. Agajanian's Ascot Saturday at 8 p.m.

The pair used to tangle weekly in the VW Sedan division in Ascot's off-road events. Jones and Potter even alternated as champions. Potter has now given up the sedans for the super sprint buggies, while Jones competes in both.

In their last outing, Jones monopolized the sedans' competition, winning the feature from defending champion Jimmy Fay of L.A. Potter, giving one of his best performances since he became a buggy pilot, took top honors in that feature while the busy Jones finished fourth.

The twin roles for Jones not only keep him sharp as a driver. He does enough running between the pits and the track to qualify as a physical fitness candidate. Some evening he intends to pull a Rick Mears stunt and win features in both types of vehicles.

The off-road competition is part of another Ascot weekend that also includes CMC Motocross Thursday night; NASCAR Modifieds Friday night; and Figure 8's Sunday night.

4 Teams Grab SVP&R Lead

People's Choice and Pizza Hut are leading the Spring Valley Park & Rec. Dist. Women's Adult Softball League. Scrubboard and Rec'ers lead the Men's League.

Here are the standings as the week started:

the world's top riders for the Carlsbad event. Signed contracts for these stars are already with the AMA, ensuring that the Hang Ten/Belray event continues to retain its status as the premier motocross race in the USA, with invariably the best line-up of European talent seen on any American tracks.

Signed for the Carlsbad event in addition to champions De Coster and Mikkola is a former World Champion, Hakan Andersson of Sweden. Andersson, who was World 250cc Champion in 1972, rides for the Spanish Montesa factory and gives their new big-bore machine it's U. S. debut.

German veteran, and still a top Championship contender, Adolf Weil, will make yet another USGP appearance for the Maico factory along with Britain's 'teenage typhoon' Graham Noyce and Austria's

Herbert Schmitz while lanky Belgian, Jaak Van Velthoven comes back once again with the Austrian KTM racer.

And, of course, three-time Carlsbad winner (1974/5/6!) Gerriit Wolsink of Holland will be back to try and make it four in a row on his factory Suzuki.

For the four-stroke fans, burly Britisher, John Banks, returns with one of the English CCM 'thumpers' that have delighted the Carlsbad crowds in the past with their deep-throated engine note.

And then, finally, there are a couple of American 'regulars' on the World Grass Prix scene — Yamaha's Pierre Kasmakers and Honda team leader, Brad Lackey. Both of these aces must be considered top-line bets for the winning as it is their only U. S. appearance of the 1977 title year.

Padres To Host Braves In Return Home Series

The San Diego Padres will finish their current 12-game road trip with four games against the Montreal Expos before returning home to open a brief homestand with the Atlanta Braves as action swings back to the National League Western Division play.

The Padres and Expos will clash in four single games in Montreal's new home, the Olympic Stadium. The Expos have really benefited so far from their new home as attendance is up by more than 100,000 and they have drawn the largest crowd in the National League this year — 57,592 against the Phillies in the home opener on April 15.

Following the four outings against the Expos, San Diego will return home for a short seven-game homestand beginning on Monday, with the first four with the Atlanta Braves. The Padres and Braves will collide Monday through Thursday, with the first three games getting underway at 7 p.m. and the series finale on Thursday being the second of five Business Specials beginning at 1 p.m.

Also, on tap during the short stay in town will be three games with the Houston Astros, Friday through Sunday, May 27-29. The opening two games are set for 7 p.m. starts with the Sunday get-away game slated for the usual 1 p.m.

For the Padres, the series with the Braves will mark the end of a long run of games against clubs from the National League's eastern Division. The schedule originally called for 23 straight games against the East, but bad weather dropped that number down slightly.

The short homestand will also serve to break up a rather lengthy period of road contests as the Padres schedule called for 12 on the road, then

Make it, Fly it

Sportsmen who think they have everything will want one more to make their inventory of toys complete, and it has to be one like Ken Brock's — the Bensen B-8M gyrocopter and lessons to fly it.

Brock says the Bensen, which will be seen at the International Do-It-Yourself Show, Wednesday and Thursday, at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, is the talk of the aircraft industry, although it isn't a helicopter and it isn't an airplane.

"The Bensen," says Brock, whose company is located in Orange County's Stanton, "is an advanced version of the world famous Spirit of Kitty Hawk gyrocopter. Anybody can fly one."

He proves it by advertising the fact that he flew his Bensen from Long Beach to Kitty Hawk, N.C., 6 years ago. And it wasn't as difficult as it sounds.

The gyrocopter is a performer, and even if you don't have a pilot's license, you can easily learn to fly a Bensen, because of its amazing simplicity, is the claim.

Average price is $4,500. It cruises at 72 m.p.h., gets about 20 miles to the gallon and it can be built from a kit.

Ali's Efforts Discredit Pro Boxing

By Max Goodwin

The Tv watching price was about right.

Television viewers of the Ali-Evangelista fight could register a complaint that it kept them away from Gomer Pyle, Gunsmoke and Andy Griffith.

But the 12,000 fans who paid to see the 15-round exhibition in Landover, Md. must be questioning their judgment.

The Ali fight was a rip off. If it had been held in San Diego's Coliseum, promoter Danny Millsap probably would have held up Ali's purse.

Fans there sometimes show displeasure by tossing beer cup, fruit, vegetables and an occasional tequila bottle onto the canvas. The Ali show would have created quite a clean-up job in San Diego.

Ali has become boring as a fighter and his disinterest in his ring chores shows through. Eventually, and soon, we hope, television will become as tired of Ali as he has become of putting on a respectable contest.

Soon, too, some of Ali's shabby effort will brush off on products on which advertising millions are spent between rounds. To say that that time has come would be giving Park Avenue credit for being smarter than it is. There'll be more Ali and more ad millions to encourage him.

Monday's fight was a sorry spectacle which served no useful purpose. If criticism of Ali's performance is wrong because he was doing the best he could, there should be no more such shows billed as championship efforts.

If he was just having fun with Evangelista, he should be ashamed.

Former Race Exec Wins First Race

Al McBride, a San Diego veteran driver posted his first main event victory in 13 years in last week's opener at South Bay Park Speedway figures to be the one to beat as modified stocks return Friday as a part of an auto racing doubleheader on the quarter-mile oval.

Gates will open at 6 p.m. with time trials at 7. The first two trophy dashes is at 8:15 p.m. Modifieds will share the card with street stockers.

McBride, retired president of the ECSCR Assn. proved that he had not lost his fineness after sitting out a year. He came from well back in the pack and then held off challenges.

Officials report that at least four more modifieds will be on the qualifying line, which should boost the entry list to 26. A series of heats will precede the two features — a 20-lapper for the streets and a 30-lapper for the modifieds.

16 Griffis Qualify For Track Finals

Coach Bob Larsen's Griffins earned 16 berths in Saturday's S. Cal. Community College track and field championships at Citrus College.

Grossmont will have representatives in 12 of Saturday's 19 events, including three runners in the 3,000-meter steeplechase.

The Griffins, who have finished fourth twice in a row in the S. Cal. finals, rate an outside chance to win the coveted crown.

In the steeplechase, the Griffins will have Jim Austin (9:33.3), Mike LeBold (9:40.5) and Wally Buckingham (9:48.6). Buckingham placed fifth in last year's finals.

Other Griffins who qualified in the running event competition were: Steve Riggins, :48.1 (his best time of the year) in the 400 meter dash; Paul Becklund, 1:55.8 in the 800; Chuck Hattersley, 3:55.2 in the 1,500; Bill Davies, 3:57.7 in the 1,500; Dave Helgeson, 15:20.5 in the 5,000; Glenn Best (31:29.9) and Chris Huges (32:16.2) in the 10,000; and the mile relay quartet of Demme Wilson, Scott Gillett, Craig Evins and Riggins, 3:17.2.

Charge Acct Booklet Free From U.S. Gov't

Mistakes on charge account bills can be costly but the federal information center has a booklet to help avert any of these crises.

The booklet is entitled "Fair Credit Billing Act" and lists the provisions of the law to protect consumers. The pamphlet deals with such topics as credit cards, revolving charge plans, and installment loans.

The booklet is free from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 649E, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Through September, amber lights will be turned on for the monorail tours at the Wild Animal Park. The lights allow visitors taking the evening tours to see the nocturnal world of animals. The park is open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Wild Animal Park Indian Rhino Dies

Golden Girl, a 27-year-old female Indian rhino on breeding loan from the Philadelphia Zoo at the S.D. Wild Animal Park, died Thursday.

The rare rhino, one of only 14 in captivity in the United States, was found dead in her enclosure by keepers in the early morning.

A post-mortem examination conducted at the San Diego Zoo Hospital revealed that Golden Girl had extensive tumors of the female genitalia, along with enteritis and weight loss.

Golden Girl arrived at the Wild Animal Park in December, 1976, to mate with the Park's male Indian rhino, Lalsai. Their meeting was far from friendly and Golden Girl was put in a protective boma until a second mating could be arranged. In Philadelphia, Golden Girl had lived with Golden Boy, a male Indian rhino, since 1955 but had produced no offspring.

Because Indian rhinos are rare and valuable, the carcass of Golden Girl is being sent to the Los Angeles County Museum.

'Viking Miracle' Is Free Lecture At Space Theatre

Dr. Gerald Soffen has chosen the title "The Viking Miracle" for his lecture and slide presentation at the Reuben H. Fleet Space Theater.

The lectures will be Saturday and Sunday at 6 p.m. in the main theater.

Dr. Soffen is a scientist of world-wide reputation in the fields of exobiology, space biology and planetology, and is the author of many scientific papers.

In March he was on a tour of several European and Soviet cities giving lectures and talks in Paris, Rome, The Hague, Helsinki and Moscow. The trip was sponsored by the U.S. Information Agency. In April he gave talks in Tokyo and Kyoto at the 5th International Conference on the Origin of Life.

The lectures will be complimentary of the Space Theatre.

New Drip System Conserves Water

Green lawns and blossoming garden may not have to be sacrificed despite worsening drought conditions throughout California.

That's what promoters of a unique watering system called Raindrip maintain.

The system has just become available in Lemon Grove and can be purchased at Broadway Hardware.

Olin Thompson, owner of the store, said the "beauty of Raindrip is that it can be adapted, using the same equipment, for major irrigation projects or was watering small family-size gardens."

He said equipment for the latter can be purchased for under $20.

According to Thompson, the system works this way:

Water is introduced from the source to the system at a slow flow rate, then through a series of baffles, its rate of flow is reduced even more until it merely drips at prescribed points.

"Irrigation takes about eight hours and results in very little evaporation since the water soaks right into the ground," Thompson explained.

Raindrip was invented in Israel where, because of the sparse water supply, a unique method of irrigation had to be found.

Kolender Heads Needy Youths Camper Drive

2,500 camperships for San Diego County youths from low income families is the 1977 goal of S.D. Chief of Police William B. Kolender.

Kolender is volunteer chairman of the Community Campership Council campaign.

"Last summer, the Campership Council was able to arrange for 1449 children to experience the maturing, rewarding experience of attending a camping program. But the San Diego area has several thousand other kids we could not help, due to lack of funds," Kolender said.

"This year's goal of 2,500 camperships can and will be met with extra community support, and hopefully, additional funds from the County's Recreation Support Program."

The Campership Council was organized seven years ago to provide summer camp assistance to those who could not afford to pay regular camping fees to agencies such as the Boy Scouts, the YMCA and the Camp Fire Girls.

The Council operates as an intermediary, making arrangements for underprivileged children between 6 and 13 years of age to attend camps throughout San Diego County.

The primary Fund Raising Campaign for the Campership Council runs through May with most campership grants being awarded during June.

Swim Classes Open

Grossmont College's Office of Community Education and the Grossmont College Physical Education Department will co-sponsor a learn to swim program this summer with classes for children 15 years old and under. The first of four two week sessions begins June 20 with the cost set at $10.

Registration for the first session is in the Grossmont P.E. Dept. room 405A 9 to 11 a.m. June 17. The phone number is 464-2871.

Child Abuse:

Identifying the Abuses

(Editor's note: This is the seventh of an eight-part series of articles on the problem of the abused and neglected child, based on "Child Abuse," a pamphlet recently published by the office of State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.)

The serious and pervasive problem of child abuse and neglect is recognized and dealt with by a variety of disciplines. Many law enforcement and justice system personnel, the medical community, mental health counselors and social service workers have developed strategies for handling the problem.

The majority of child abuse cases come first to the attention of the police. Neighbors, relatives, doctors, teachers and others often report suspected abuse to the police first primarily because police investigators are available 24 hours a day.

In addition, the police are empowered to enter a home to protect a child. The investigating officer will decide whether to take the child into protective custody, file criminal charges against the parent(s) or refer the case to probation, welfare (child protective services) or another agency.

The police utilize a number of questions to assist in a determination of actual child abuse cases:

1. Is this an isolated incident, any history of abuse/neglect or family disturbances?
2. How was the incident reported? Who reported?
3. What is the parents' knowledge of childhood stages, are their expectations of children realistic?
4. Are the parents in touch with reality?
5. Is there evidence of violence or sadism in the family?
6. What is the general condition of the home?
7. Is the nature and severity of injuries indicative of abuse or neglect?

8. What is the general behavior of parents? Are the explanations of the child's injuries poor, are they emotionally upset, or do they place blame upon others? Are they apathetic, insensitive to child's needs?

The district attorney, or in appropriate cases, the city attorney, will prosecute in criminal courts serious cases of child abuse. On occasions the district attorney will appear on behalf of the child in a dependency proceeding as provided for in section 600, Welfare and Institutions Code. In Los Angeles County, the juvenile section of the county counsel's office specializes in the trial of dependency cases and represents the welfare department in all cases in which a dependency petition is filed.

Doctors Rate

Doctors, nurses, dentists and other medical personnel play a crucial role in child abuse detection. Medical techniques for diagnosis are continually developing and improving, especially in the field of radiology. X-rays showing numerous fractures of varying ages indicate a strong suspicion of abuse.

Other indexes of "suspicion" employed by hospitals and doctors in the detection of child abuse include:

1. History of repeated injuries, delays in seeking care.
2. Discrepancies in explanations of injuries; between history and nature of injuries.
3. Injuries found in physical exam and x-rays not reported by parents.
4. General nutrition and health poor.
5. Child passive or fearful.
6. Evidence of sexual activity or abuse.
7. Bruises or broken bones in child under 3 months old.
8. X-rays show chip or fracture in joints (result of twisting limbs).
9. Head injuries.
10. Abdominal injuries, internal injuries.
11. Behavior of parents: over or under react, cannot remember how it happened, insensitive to child's pain, refuse consent for further examination of child, blame others, appear detached or apathetic.

The importance of the social welfare department's role lies in its long term involvement following the short term role of law enforcement and/or medical personnel. Social workers provide on-going services to children and families having difficulties.

In many counties in California the board of supervisors has delayed to the county welfare department all or part of the duties of probation officers that concern children described as dependent under section 600 of the Welfare and Institutions Code. The county welfare department investigates petition requests and files petitions with the juvenile court.

Upon order of the court, the department completes a social study of the child and family for the court and makes a recommendation to the court regarding disposition order for the child. When a child is declared a dependent of the court, the department supervises the child for the court offering service to assure protection of the child and to rehabilitate the family. Progress reports are made at least annually to the court.

Within each county welfare department there is a specialized child protective services program designed specifically for protecting the general welfare of children.

Mandated by section 16500 of the Welfare and Institutions Code, the State through the State Department of Social Welfare and county welfare department, shall establish and support a public system of statewide child protective services to be developed as rapidly as possible and to be available in each county of the state. All counties or combination of counties shall establish specialized units of protective service for children.

Section 16502.5 of the code describes the content of the program, "As used in this chapter, 'child protective services' means public social services which supplement, or substitute for, parental care and supervision of problems which may result in, the neglect, abuse, exploitation, or delinquency of children, protecting and caring for the homeless, dependent, or neglected children, protecting and promoting the welfare of children of working mothers, and otherwise protecting and promoting the welfare of children, including the strengthening of their own homes where possible or, where needed, the provision of adequate care of children away from their homes in foster family homes or day-care or other childcare facilities."

In addition, section 18250 of the code gives the board of supervisors the authority to establish programs for protective services noting that "The board of supervisors of any county may establish such programs as are deemed necessary to provide protective services for children, so as to insure that the rights of physical, mental, or moral welfare of children are not violated or threatened by their present circumstances or environment."

Social Services

Whenever possible, child protective services workers try to keep the family together and treat the unit as a whole. Taking the child from the home is the last resort. Workers generally begin helping families by seeking the answers to the following questions:

1. Who lives with the child?
2. What are the sex and ages of parents, siblings, relatives and absent parents?
3. What are the caretakers? Age, sex, relationship?
4. What is the family income? Is the income sufficient? How is it spent?
5. What is the nature of the parental relationship?
6. How does the reportedly abused or neglected child interact with the parents.
7. What is the length of time the family has been in the area and the frequency of moves?
8. What is the condition of the home?
9. Who are other relatives or friends in the area?
10. What is the family's knowledge of community resources? Do they utilize these resources?
11. Are child care services being used such as babysitters?
12. Is there agreement between parents on child-rearing techniques?
13. Is there a use of corporal punishment as discipline?
14. Are there any outstanding family tensions? How are they expressed?
15. What is the relationship between child and parents?

School teachers, nurses, counselors and principals also play an important role in the detection of child abuse and neglect. Symptomatic signs of abuse/neglect such as injuries, listlessness, poor nutrition, disruptive behavior, absenteeism or depression are often first seen by school personnel. Immediate investigation of suspected abuse may save a child from repeated injuries. Therefore, school personnel should not hesitate to report suspicious injuries or behavior. Reporting is required by law and may be made to the police department and probation department, the local welfare department or health department.

Schools can play a large role in the prevention of abuse and neglect by offering to students classes on marriage, parenting and child development. Parent-hood education is vitally needed.

Tough Water Ordinance Proposed

Wash Your Driveway And End Up in Jail

The Metropolitan Water District has urged its 27 member agencies, their subagencies and all city and county governments in Southern California to adopt ordinances outlawing wasteful uses of water.

John H. Lauten, Metropolitan general manager, said the District's legal staff has drafted a model ordinance that would ban washing down hard surfaces like sidewalks, driveways or patios with hoses; flooding streets and gutters with water from sprinklers, hoses or any other irrigation device; watering any garden, lawn or other form of landscaping between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.; refilling any emptied fountain, pool or other facility containing water solely for ornamental purposes; allowing any water leak that could be repaired, and serving water in restaurants except by request.

$300 and/or 30 Days

Lauten said the model ordinance makes these violations a misdemeanor and violators would be punishable by a fine of up to $300, imprisonment in county jail up to 30 days, or both.

Metropolitan's model ordinance also calls for the installation of flow-restrictors on the water lines of repeat violators of the ordinance and disconnecting service to repeat violators.

"Incredible as it seems, there still are some people who are ignoring every plea to conserve water and are still blatantly wasting it in the middle of California's worst drought," he said.

"Conservation is easy, but we have to get the message through to these water wasters that we are serious, dead serious."

"That's why we are recommending that our agencies, their subagencies and the various governmental bodies in Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego and Ventura counties consider adopting our model ordinance or some similar measure to make these wasteful uses of water illegal."

Squandering Hurts

"It's ridiculous to have a lot of Californians working hard to save water and then have some people negate their efforts by needlessly squandering water."

Metropolitan, which supplies supplemental water to 11 million Southern Californians in six counties as a wholesaler, has no legal authority to adopt and enforce such ordinances on its own, Lauten said.

"But it is time that those agencies that do sell water directly to the public, along with city and county governments, which have the authority to pass such laws, do consider and adopt restraints against wasting water."

$120,000 Given S.D. By New, Young Firm

A city usually rewards a firm for moving to town but the procedure was reversed Wednesday noon when the R. L. Burn Corp. presented the City of San Diego with $20,000 to restore the Spreckles Organ Pavilion in Balboa Park and set up a $100,000 cultural fund for COMBO (Combined Art and Educational Council of San Diego County).

After the corporation announced its gift of $10,000 for organ restoration and $50,000 for COMBO, Richard L. Burns decided to match the funds personally.

The corporation moved to San Diego only recently and called the luncheon conference, attended by more than 100 civic and political leaders at the Little America Westgate hotel, where the presentations were made.

Mayor Pete Wilson accepted the funds for the City. The COMBO gift is an endowment of $10,000 a year for five years.

R. L. Burns is a domestic oil, gas and coal exploration and production company with a broad range of well drilling and related services to industrial clients on a contractual basis.

Started 6 years ago, the firm is now the 8th largest exploration firm in California with assets of more than $100 million. Burns, 41, last month, took up residence in the La Jolla home of Earl Gagosian, former head of the Royal Inns at the Wharf.

55 MILE AN HOUR — The County Board of Supervisors proclaimed the month of May the "55 MPH Compliance Month" and urged drivers of the county to voluntarily participate in observing the 55 MPH maximum speed limit.

Presenting the proclamation to Captain C. M. Douglas, CHP El Cajon area commander is Supervisor Lucille Moore.

Later, on Monday, Capt. Douglas told members of the Lemon Grove Rotary club that thousands of lives are being saved each year, gasoline energy saving of billions of gallons is result of 55 mile limit.

If all motorists complied with the limit 300 million gallons of gasoline would be saved annually in California alone. Nationwide, the savings would be about 3 billion gallons, he said.

Start-Up Rolling Smoothly For Area's Meals On Wheels

It took nearly a year to raise enough money to start Lemon Grove/Spring Valley Meals on Wheels but May 9 the program finally mobilized.

Meals on Wheels is a program for chronically or temporarily ill, the disabled, or the aged self sufficient which supplies them with nourishing food at nominal cost plus assists them with services such as cutting the bureaucratic red tape.

Meals are delivered five days a week Monday through Friday. Each delivery contains one hot and one cold meal. Special diets such as low sodium, bland, or diabetic are available and are prepared locally by the staff of Monte Vista Retirement Lodge, 2211 Massachusetts ave.

Some two years ago, area residents began to quiz the Heartland Division, chief architect of Meals on Wheels, for a program in Lemon Grove and Spring Valley. Some 33 people called up for the program.

Buella L'Heureux of Spring Valley, the chief designer of the program came to Lemon Grove a little over a year ago and began efforts at raising the funds needed to start Meals on Wheels.

According to Val Griffin, the Coordinator of the Lemon Grove Spring Valley effort, the money was needed for equipment, staff, and for a required reserve of operating funds.

Slowly, the money came in. Court Teresa, Catholic Daughters of America, for example donated $15 a month for the project during the past year.

Some 40 volunteer drivers were secured for the project prior to Monday's start-up.

Currently the project is limited to ten participants. Five area residents were served Monday and Mrs. Griffith said she expected the five remaining openings in the program to be filled soon.

As for any expansion of the program, there may be some hope for many more participants.

"We will just have to play it by ear for now," said Mrs. Griffith.

To apply for the Meals on Wheels program, contact Mrs. Val Griffin, Coordinator of the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley Meals on Wheels Program at 464-8953.

Wood is Thicker Than Gas State Foresters Contend

SACRAMENTO — Three foresters in the California Department of Forestry are advocating dusting off the old pot-bellied stove as a means of thwarting energy shortages.

The three foresters have suggested using debris left from loggers in Northern California's forests and woodlands as possible fuel for power generating plants.

One of the foresters, Brian Barrette, said the waste, if burned could equal the generating capacity of four nuclear power plants.

"If we burned just the wood-manufacturing waste and the limbs, chunks, and bark left over after trees are logged, we could generate electrical power equal to that produced by four Rancho Seco nuclear power plants. And the supply would continue forever," Barrette said. "There would be environmental benefits, too."

"The wildlife fire hazard would be reduced, healthier trees could grow, and we could double the amount of trees grown each year," he continued. "What we've forgotten is that long ago everyone in the West burned wood. We were powered by wood until 75 years ago. It could work again."

he three did concede there would be smoke but added "it can be controlled."

Birdwatchers Class Starts

An adult class in basic birding, "Landbirds of San Diego," is scheduled at Natural History Museum. An evening and morning section will be held on May 19 at 6:30 p.m. and Friday, May 20 at 10 a.m.

Both sections will consist of a series of 4 lectures and 2 field trips which will introduce the beginner to bird watching techniques.

The course instructor is Dr. Janice Victoria, Museum's Educational Activities Department Chairman. It is limited to 30 per section.

For reservations call the Museum's Activities Dept., 232-3821 ext. 22. The charge is $20.

'Ghosts of Cabrillo Lighthouse' Is Enthralling, Historic Tale

By Max Goodwin

Well, Johnny has done it again.

Johnny, as we of the senior set refer to him, is John Sinor, the sterling columnist of the San Diego Evening Tribune and author of three "little" books.

Little refers only to his subjects. He writes for and about youngsters. And as much as anyone for those who would read books to someone young.

In my opinion, his books are for anyone who is able to read. His prose is enthralling. His subject have a solid basis in history. His latest effort is "Ghosts of Cabrillo Lighthouse."

His daily column is the Tribune and other newspapers across the nation is strictly for family fun and those of us who read him get that much needed lift at the end of the day.

"Ghosts" joins "Eleven Albatrosses in my Bluebird Tree" and "Finsterhall of San Pasqual" on the growing list of Sinor books.

All are based on actual beings and/or local history. "Albatrosses" has to do with a bemused and pleased dad reacting to the activities of his family which consists of an adoring (and adored) wife and 11 children.

"Finsterhall" is the life and times of a rabbit born, raised and frightened nearly to death when his homeland is being developed into San Diego's Wild Animal Park.

And "Ghosts" is a story based on Cabrillo lighthouse history. Two modern, young Pt. Lomans are carried back in time. They become overnight guests of the keepers of the Pt. Loma lighthouse and their two youngsters. The time, however, has become 1877.

100 Years Apart

Imagine what four youngsters would talk about—they being in their subteens—with 100 years of San Diego development and 100 years of scientific accomplishment dividing the two sets.

Children are quick to believe and the 1977 youngsters had managed to carry a small and rather insignificant item back in time with them. And that, as much as anything made the 1877 youngsters believers. They had to keep it secret from mom and pop who wouldn't have believed any part of it.

The secret device is revealed early in the book and may still be astonishing the youngsters left behind them when the modern youngsters wended their way back to their proper time frame.

The models for the kids are San Diego youngsters whose names Sinor ticks off with pride when he discusses his book.

The lighthouse, its furnishings are properly depicted in the book. Even the story's resident ranger is a real person.

It, as are all Sinor books, ends on a happy note. "Finsterhall" is being made into a movie. "Ghosts" will go to movie script following. Few authors can boast two of three books on the movie screen.

New Project

At a publication party at the San Diego Press Club Friday, Sinor revealed a new enterprise. He, together with former San Diego Union editor Gene Greston, is going to Albuquerque to write a movie for grown-ups. This time the subject will be seniors. The format will be light comedy, but, he is quick to note, "we'll be laughing with them, not at them."

He has only 3-weeks leave from his daily column chore which means "I'll have to work my brains out," he says. Those of us who are Sinor fans believe his efforts will be successful.

I, for one, have never read a line of Sinor's that wasn't excellent.

E. County 4-H Fair Held This Weekend

By Blair Hendrix

Some forty members from the Jamul Chaparreros 4-H Club are participating in the East County Junior Fair which opened yesterday at El Capitan high school in Lakeside.

Judging for animal and home arts projects will continue each afternoon and evening throughout the fair.

The fair will wrap up with an Animal Auction on May 21 beginning at 1 p.m.

Members of the Jamul Chaparreros Club participated in a practice day for the upcoming fair April 30.

The Annual Bonita Field Day held at Rohr Park created an atmosphere where East County 4-Hers could show their animals and home economics projects in test competition.

This competition netted some 15 blue ribbons and other awards in six divisions.

Profitable Day's Work

It was a profitable day's work — for the burglar.

When the burglar left the residence of William Howard Brown at 929 Brucker ave., Spring Valley, he carried with him a loaded pillow case. The items in it were valued at $3,268.

Brown reported the loss to the sheriff's department at 10 p.m. on March 30. The list of items included jewelry, cameras, projectors, and antique clocks.

Gas Bills May Go Up By Summer

San Diego Gas and Electric Company will ask the California Public Utilities Commission if they may up their rates by 18 per cent when the two get together in Los Angeles at 10 a.m. this morning.

The gas company contends it needs some $4 million more to offset increases from their suppliers.

The increases reflect recent rate ups allowed by the Federal Power Commission to pipeline companies, specifically the SoCal Transwestern Pipeline Company, the sole source of gas for SDG&E.

SDG&E is asking for increases for all usage except lifeline. Bills for the lifeline usage will remain the same but bills for use of 50 therms upward will go up $1.30 during the summer.

County Spends $25,000 To Check Itself

The County has spent some $25,000 to run a check on how well county treasurer Delavan J. Dickson is doing his job handling the $210 million in the county retirement fund coffers.

The County released last Friday the San Diego County Grand Jury's Fourth Interim Report which included auditing done by Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. at a cost of $25,000.

The grand jury was uptight over Dickson's control of the retirement fund since he is the only person handling the books on that account.

The report states the investment of the money was handled properly by Dickson yet advised new procedures be adopted to allow more people a say in investing the retirement monies.

DMV Has Booklet On Mobile Home Buying

A booklet on the rights of mobile home owners and buyers is available now in California Department of Motor Vehicles field offices.

The 12 page document has been put together by a joint effort by the departments of Consumer Affairs, Housing and Community Development, and DMV.

The publication is titled "Mobile Homes, A Consumer's Guide" and is free.

Copies are also available by writing the Department of Consumer Affairs, P.O. Box 310, Sacramento, CA 95814. Enclose stamped, self-addressed legal size envelope.

Also, mobile home owners with complaints may call the DMV/H&CD Mobile Home Complaint Center toll-free at 1-800-952-5285 Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
